To whom it may concern:

I am excited to apply for the Developer Experience Engineer role at Whatnot. With over five years of experience enhancing developer productivity, building scalable systems, and optimizing CI/CD workflows, I am eager to contribute to Whatnot's mission to revolutionize ecommerce through live shopping. Whatnot's commitment to innovation and remote collaboration aligns perfectly with my passion for fostering seamless developer experiences that empower engineering teams to ship products faster and safer.

At by The Lindemans, LLC, I led efforts to implement and maintain CI/CD pipelines, ensuring fast and reliable deployments across multiple environments. I collaborated closely with engineering teams to build local tooling that streamlined the development process, improved developer workflow, and reduced friction. These experiences, combined with my proficiency in cloud platforms such as AWS and Kubernetes, prepared me to contribute meaningfully to the growth and success of Whatnot's engineering team.

In my role at Tolleson Union High School District, I also optimized engineering workflows, balancing developer needs with technical solutions to ensure productivity and scalability. I have experience deploying infrastructure using tools like Docker and Terraform, and I thrive in fast-paced, hyper-growth environments that demand problem-solving and adaptability. My ability to foster collaborative relationships and communicate effectively with engineers will enable me to align seamlessly with Whatnot's culture of growth and innovation.

I am particularly drawn to Whatnot's vision of bringing shopping, entertainment, and community together in a dynamic marketplace. I look forward to applying my skills in CI/CD pipelines, cloud technologies, and developer productivity to support Whatnot's continued growth and success.

Thank you for your time and consideration. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my background and experience align with Whatnot's goals.

Respectfully,
Enoch Lindeman
